Possible Pandemic Wave Scenarios for COVID-19

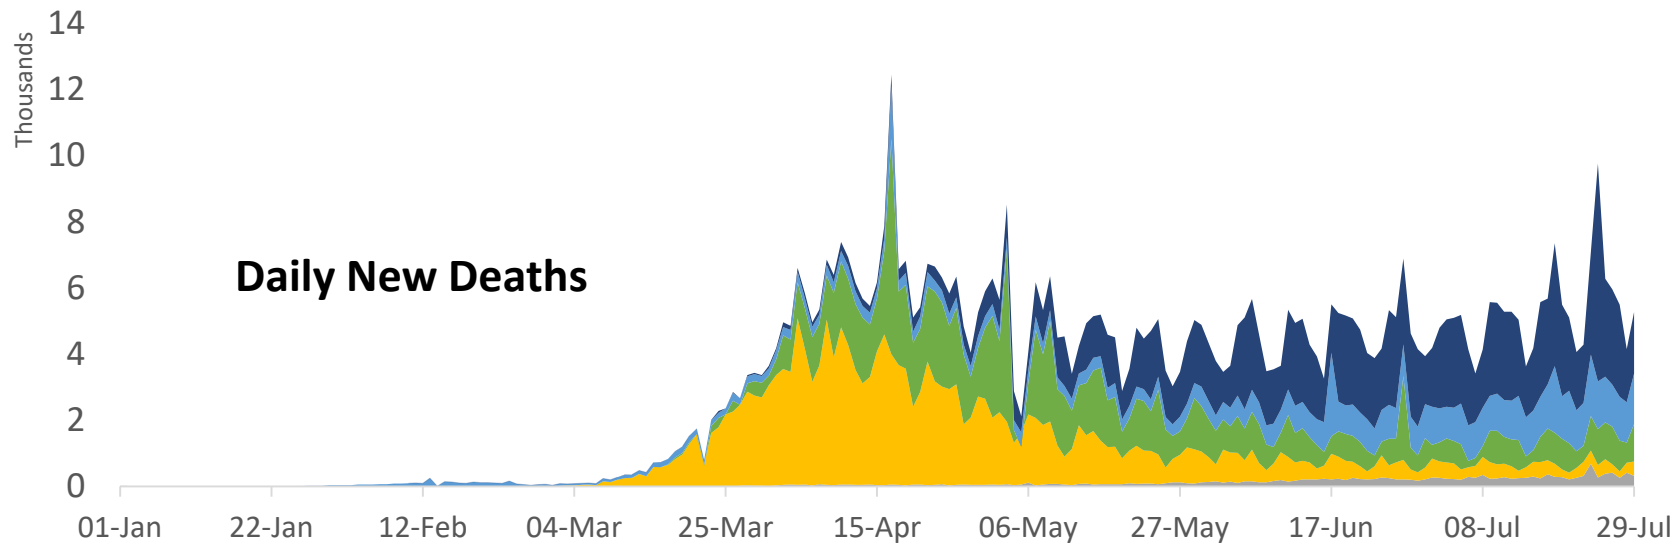

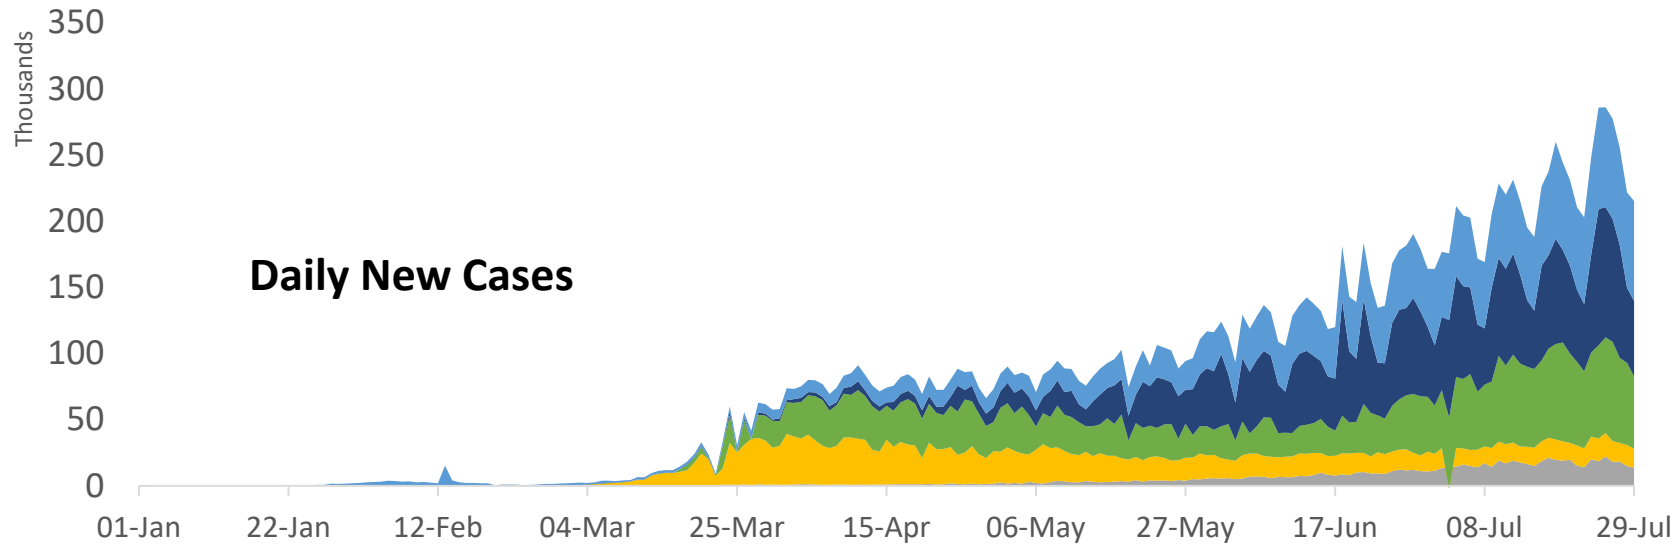

“The coronavirus pandemic is likely to last between 18 and 24 months, scientists from the University of Minnesota predicted”

An outbreak is expected to continue if a disease is given an R naught value higher than 1 during an event like the current pandemic. Covid-19’s R0 has been estimated between 1.4 and 5.7 in various studies — but CIDRAP noted a rating was difficult to establish due to variations in identifying and testing infected people between regions.

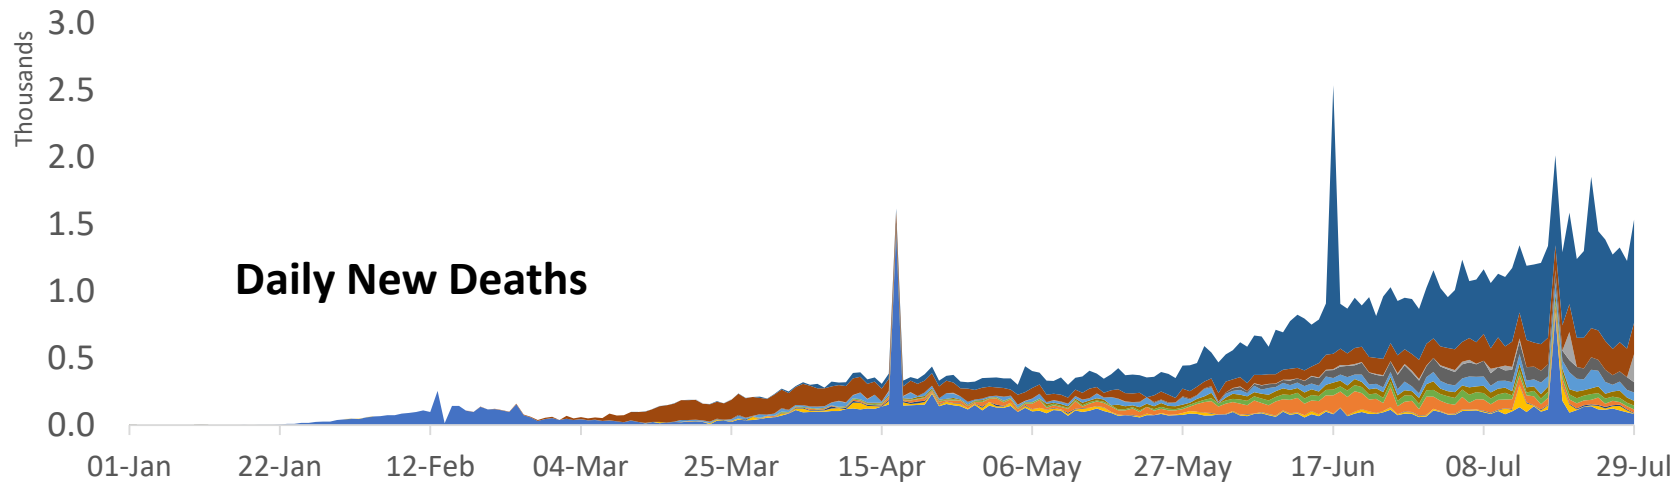

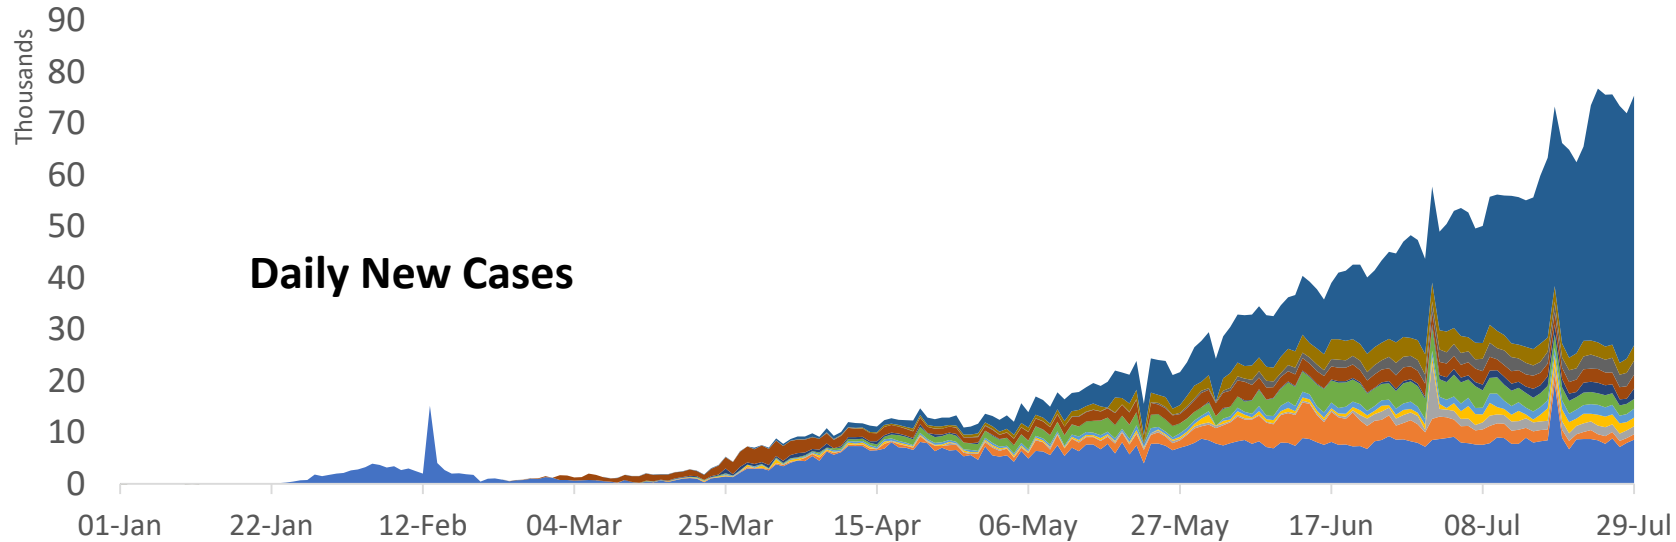

“Whichever scenario the pandemic follows — assuming at least some level of ongoing mitigation measures — we must be prepared for at least another 18 to 24 months of significant Covid-19 activity, with hot spots popping up periodically in diverse geographic areas,” scientists said.
