

Dominik Peschel

Dominik PESCHEL is an economist with nearly 15 years of work experience in macroeconomics and international finance. In 2013, Mr. Peschel joined the Asian Development Bank from the German central bank. He currently serves as Head of Economics Unit at ADB's PRC Resident Mission in Beijing, where he focuses on macroeconomic surveillance. Before moving to Beijing in 2018, he led ADB's macroeconomic forecast for Central Asia and the South Caucasus. Mr. Peschel holds graduate degrees in economics, law, and public administration.